INTRODUCTION

This Election Finance Report is an addendum document to the Report of the Chief Electoral Officer on the General Election for the Forty-Fourth General Assembly February 9, 1999 that was submitted to the Speaker of the House of Assembly on November 28, 1999.

It was pointed out in that report that new election financing rules were in place for the 1999 General Election in line with Part III of the Elections Act, 1991 amended with effect from September 3, 1998.

Election finance provisions of the Act cover registration of candidates in the general election and the conduct of political parties and candidates with respect to the filing of financial statements, limits on election expenses, control over political contributions and the resultant tax credits, and the public subsidization of candidate's expenditures.

Section 304 of The Act specifies that the chief financial officer of every registered party or candidate shall, within 6 months after polling day, file with the Chief Electoral Officer a financial statement of income and expenses of the party or candidate for which he or she acts relating to the election, together with the auditor's report as required by subsection 302(6). The Office of The Chief Electoral Officer has responsibility for conducting a review of the required filings with a view to determining compliance with Election Finance Legislation.

The deadline for filing of the required statements with respect to the February 9, 1999 General Election was therefore set at August 9, 1999. This Report contains a summary of the financial information submitted. The actual financial statements on which this summary is based may be viewed at the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer during normal business hours.

The original of this Report has been forwarded to the Queen's Printer for reproduction purposes and availability to the public. Also, a copy has been supplied to the Legislative Librarian for further reference by Members of the House of Assembly.

FILING OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Section 303 of the Elections Act requires the chief financial officer of a registered political party to file, on or before April 1 in each year, a complete set of audited financial statements for the previous year. Section 304 of the Elections Act requires the chief financial officer of a registered political party or candidate in an election to file, within 6 months of polling day, an audited statement of income and expenses of the party or candidate relating to the election.

As referenced in the ANNUAL REPORT OF THE CHIEF ELECTORAL OFFICER ON ELECTION FINANCES FOR JANUARY 1, 1998 TO DECEMBER 31, 1998 the Newfoundland and Labrador Party failed to file with the Chief Electoral Officer, the 1998 annual financial statements required under Section 303 of the Act. As well, the Newfoundland and Labrador Party failed to file an audited statement of income and expenses relating to the general election as required under Section 304 of the Act.

Pursuant to Section 280 of the Elections Act, as Chief Electoral Officer I have given notice to Newfoundland and Labrador Party officials of my intent to pursue deregistration of the Party for its failure to file the annual report required by Section 303 of the Elections Act, 1991. Election Finance legislation provides the party an opportunity to make representations concerning the Chief Electoral Officer's proposal to deregister and establishes an appeal process if the party wishes to contest the Chief Electoral Officer's decision.

With respect to Section 304 of the Act and the February 9, 1999 General Election, my office received reports on campaign income and expenses from the other three registered political parties and from each of the 146 candidates in the February 9, 1999 General Election. The three party filings were received at the Electoral Office by the August 9, 1999 filing deadline while 12 of the 146 candidate returns were received after the deadline.

Section 320 of the Elections Act provides for a fine or penalty of $50 per day for a chief financial officer who either willfully or through neglect fails to file a financial return with the Chief Electoral Officer within the time required by section 304 of the Act. Any money paid to the Chief Electoral Officer under these provisions is remitted to the Provincial Consolidated Revenue Fund.

Of the twelve late-filed returns, one was accompanied by voluntary payment of a three-day $150 penalty. I have completed a review of the circumstances concerning the other late filings to determine whether proceedings should be instituted on the grounds of willful or negligent action by the respective chief financial officers. My observation of the reasons for these late filings lead me to the view that there was no willful or negligent action.

“APPENDIX A” to this report presents a summary of the income and expense statements for the three registered political parties and a district by district summary of the income and expense statements of the 146 candidates. The actual financial statements on which this summary is based may be viewed at the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer during normal business hours.

POLITICAL CONTRIBUTIONS

Subsection 299(4) of the Elections Act, 1991 requires that a registered party and a candidate in an election shall, along with the statements of income and expenses for the election required under Section 304, file a listing with respect to contributions received in a campaign period that either individually or in sum exceed $100 together with the name and address of the contributor(s).

A comprehensive listing of political contributions made to the reporting political parties and candidates during the 1999 election campaign is contained in "Appendix B" to this report.

As referenced earlier in this report, significant changes affecting election finances were enacted by the House of Assembly on June 5, 1998 to take effect on September 3, 1998. The most significant of the new amendments from an Election Finance perspective was the removal of annual contribution limits for individuals and corporations who wish to donate money to a political cause.

From a compliance perspective, this legislative change helped simplify what was in the past a difficult provision of the Act to control and report on. Previous contribution limits applied to total contributions made by an individual or a corporation to all registered entities in a given year. In many cases, an individual or corporation would contribute to more than one political entity, which acting on their own could not possibly be aware of the amount of such contributions made to another entity. As a result, individual or corporate over-contributions were usually not discovered until all of the required contribution reports had been filed with the Chief Electoral Officer. Although technically, such overcontributions were in violation of the Act, the parties involved could not be found at fault and were then faced with the task of retroactively adjusting for the discovered errors.

ELECTION EXPENSES

Section 310 of the Elections Act, 1991 places limitations on the amount of election expenses permitted by political parties and candidates. In essence, a political party in a general election is limited to an expenditure not to exceed $3.125 (adjusted for inflation) times the number of persons on the revised list of electors in each district the party has candidates. Election expenses of a candidate are limited to that same factor multiplied by the number of persons on the revised list of electors in the district in which he or she is a candidate, but in no case shall a party's or candidate's expenses be limited to an amount less than $12,000 ( adjusted for inflation).

The initial dollar factors of $3.125 and $12,000 specified under Section 310 of the Act are adjusted annually by the Chief Electoral Officer for changes in the consumer price index. The factors applicable for the February 9, 1999 General Election were $3.204 and $12,391.73 respectively.

A listing of Individual district limits applicable to the February 9, 1999 general election are presented in "APPENDIX C" to this report.

The three political parties and all candidates who filed returns relating to the election were found to be in compliance with expenditure limits.

It is noted that, with the exception of fraudulent activity, the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer does not have the legislative authority to intervene or disallow a particular expenditure relating to an election. The chief financial officer for a party or a candidate has sole responsibility for authorizing and incurring election expenses. That person is however, required to report all such expenditures to the Chief Electoral Officer and, in so doing, they are incorporated into his or her election finance report and become a matter of public record.

PUBLIC SUBSIDIZATION OF CANDIDATES EXPENSES

Section 312 of the Elections Act, 1991 entitles a Candidate who receives at least 15% of the popular vote cast in his or her electoral district to a reimbursement of election expenses from the Provincial Treasury equal to the lesser of 1/3 of the expense limit for the district or 1/3 of actual qualifying expenses. In the February 9, 1999 General Election, 99 of the 146 Candidates received at least 15% of the popular vote in their district and incurred qualifying election expenses.

In addition to the Section 312 Candidate Subsidy, Subsection 302(9) provides for the subsidization of the cost of auditor services for all Candidates to a maximum of $500.

Individual candidate subsidy payments ranged from a low of $67.08 to a high of $9,291.00 with total candidates subsidy payments amounting to $513,404.14. Total auditor subsidy payments amounted to $71,364.25.

Section 313 of the Elections Act requires that campaign surpluses created either from political contributions or payment of election expense subsidies be, in the case of a candidate whose political affiliation appears on the ballot, remitted to his or her party, and in all other cases remitted to the Chief Electoral Officer who shall hold the money in trust on behalf of the candidate to be used in the next general or by-election. If the candidate does not run in the next election, the surplus funds held in trust are remitted to the Provincial Consolidated Revenue Fund.

52 of the 146 candidates in the February 9, 1999 General Election reported a campaign surplus remaining after payment of expenses. Each of the 52 candidates in question indicated a political affiliation on the ballot and were required to remit the surplus to their respective party. Total amounts transferred to the respective parties were as follows:

Liberal Party	$ 122,755.92
Progressive Conservative Party	$ 16,137.41
New Democratic Party	$ 23,218.42
	$ 162,111.75

ELECTION FINANCE COMPLIANCE ISSUES

As part of the powers and duties under the Elections Act, 1991, the Chief Electoral Officer is responsible for ensuring compliance by registered entities with the provisions of Part III of the Elections Act. Part III deals specifically with election finance issues and the disclosure and reporting requirements for financial information.

Part III of the Elections Act requires registered entities to maintain proper accounting records of their activities. They must adhere to the Part III rules governing solicitation, recording and reporting of political contributions and income tax receipts and they must report within specified time limits on election finance activity to the Chief Electoral Officer.

Audited income and expense statements pertaining to elections filed under Section 304 are reviewed by the Chief Electoral Officer with a view to determining compliance with the Act.

The main area of concern with respect to compliance with election finance legislation remains the ability of this office to impart knowledge of the Act to a candidate and/or his or her chief financial officer (CFO) in an election. Under normal circumstances, most candidates do not announce their candidacy and name their CFO until after a general election is called. At that point in time both the candidate and the CFO are heavily involved in the day to day activities of the campaign and very little time is available to educate or train them with respect to the legislation. Little prior knowledge of election finance legislation coupled with the need to get campaigns up and running quickly invariably leads to recording and reporting errors. In addition, candidates and their CFO's are in many cases unaware of their duties and obligations under the Elections Act.

The most common error encountered during my office's review of campaign period filings was for a campaign to accept contributions from unincorporated groups or partnerships. Such contributions are prohibited by the Act unless the contribution is accompanied by a listing of members of the group showing the individual sources and amounts contributed per individual group member. If such a listing could not be provided, the CFO was required to either return the contribution to the group or remit the amount received to the Chief Electoral Officer who in turn pays it over to the Provincial Consolidated Revenue Fund.

Another area where errors were frequently encountered concerned the establishment of campaign financing, in particular the use of personal loans or guarantees to pay campaign debts. Under the Elections Act, a campaign loan must be made "directly" to the campaign in the name of the campaign and cannot be made in the name of an individual on behalf of a campaign. Such loans can only be made by a bank or other recognized lending institution or by a federal or provincial political party registered under the Canada Elections Act or recognized by the Chief Electoral Officer in the appropriate province.

In cases where personal loans were established in error, the CFO was asked to establish a proper campaign loan and to certify that the personal loans or guarantees were repaid by the campaign. If this could not be done, the amount of the guarantee became a contribution rather than a loan and was required to be receipted and reported along with other campaign contributions.

The use of electronic banking transactions created problems for several candidates in the February 9, 1999 General Election. The Act specifies that certain identifying information is required from a contributor before a candidate is able to accept a contribution. The nature of electronic transfers can in some cases make this information difficult to collect. There was one instance where a candidate's CFO was unable to identify the source of an electronic transfer to the campaign's account and, pursuant to the Elections Act, was required to remit the unidentified amount to the Chief Electoral Officer. The Chief Electoral Officer in turn remits those funds to the Provincial Consolidated Revenue Fund.

There were several instances where contributions of cash amounts greater than the permitted limit of $100 were accepted by campaigns. In each instance encountered it was possible to positively identify the respective contributor and the campaigns were required to take steps to properly receipt and record the contributions.

The September 3rd, 1998 revisions to the Elections Act affected the activities of local political district associations during and prior to the campaign period. Such associations are now unregistered entities under the Elections Act. They cannot contribute "directly" to a candidate's campaign and must channel any political contributions they receive through their associated political party. Effectively, these new provisions place the onus on the political party, which is a registered entity under the Elections Act, to provide details on fund raising and contribution drives held by unregistered local district associations if those funds are intended to be used for a political purpose.

There were several instances of funds being raised by local district associations and transferred directly to local candidates. In each instance my office asked that the funds be channelled through the appropriate political party who was then asked to certify that the funds were raised in accordance with the Elections Act. If contributions were involved, a listing of contributors was supplied by the Party and incorporated into the comprehensive listing of political contributions contained in "Appendix B" to this report.

Given the problem areas indicated above, I believe my office encountered relatively few election finance compliance issues arising from the 1999 General Election. The few compliance issues that did arise have been resolved to the satisfaction of the Chief Electoral Officer.

However, my office feels there is a need to discuss these identified problem areas with the Advisory Committee established under the Act. That Committee consists of the Chief Electoral Officer and 2 representatives of each registered political party that had official candidates in at least  $\frac{1}{2}$  of all electoral districts in the preceding general election. It is my intent to ask the Committee to consider whether more specific guidelines are needed to deal with these problems.
