INTRODUCTION

This Election Finance Report is an addendum document to the Report of the Chief Electoral Officer on the General Election for the Forty-Fifth General Assembly October 21, 2003 that was submitted to the Speaker of the House of Assembly on July 9, 2004.

The original of this Report has been forwarded to the Queen's Printer for reproduction purposes and availability to the public. Also, a copy has been supplied to the Legislative Librarian for further reference by Members of the House of Assembly and it is also available for viewing on the Elections Newfoundland and Labrador webpage at www.gov.nl.ca/elections/

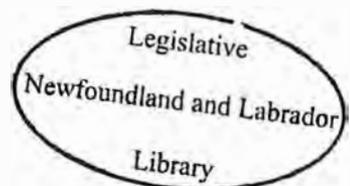

Election finance provisions of the Act deal with the registration of candidates in a general election and the conduct of both political parties and candidates with respect to receipt of political contributions, limitations on election expenditures, and the filing of required financial statements and reports.

This report contains a summary of the financial information submitted under these provisions. The actual financial statements on which this summary is based may be viewed at the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer during normal business hours.

FILING OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Section 304 of The Act specifies that the chief financial officer of every registered political party or candidate shall, within 6 months after polling day, file with the Chief Electoral Officer a financial statement of income and expenses of the party or candidate for which he or she acts relating to the election, together with the auditor's report as required by subsection 302(6). The Office of The Chief Electoral Officer has responsibility for conducting a review of these filings with a view to determining compliance with Election Finance Legislation.

The filing deadline for the required statements for the October 21, 2003 General Election was set at April 21, 2004.

My office received reports on campaign income and expenses from each of the four registered political parties and from each of the 143 candidates in the October 21, 2003 General Election.

The filings for the Liberal Party, Progressive Conservative Party and Labrador Party were received by the legislative deadline. The New Democratic Party filing was not received until June 17, 2004 due to delays in the audit process itself and due in part to the dual roll of the party's provincial chief financial officer who was also acting as official agent for the party during the federal election campaign leading up to the June 28, 2004 federal election.

In all, 21 of the 143 registered candidates failed to file a return by the April 21, 2004 deadline.

Section 320 of the Act provides for fines and or penalties for a chief financial officer who either willfully or through neglect fails to file a financial return with the Chief Electoral Officer within the time required by legislation.

I have completed a review of the circumstances concerning these late filings to determine whether proceedings should be instituted on the grounds of willful or negligent action by the respective chief financial officers. My observation of the reasons for the late filings leads me to the view that there was no willful or negligent action on the part of the chief financial officers.

"APPENDIX A" to this report presents a summary of the income and expense statements for the four registered political parties and a district by district summary of the income and expense statements for candidates. As stated above, the actual financial statements on which this summary is based may be viewed at the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer during normal business hours.

POLITICAL CONTRIBUTIONS

Subsection 299(4) of the Elections Act, 1991 requires that a registered party and a candidate in an election shall, along with the statements of income and expenses for the election required by Section 304, file a listing with respect to contributions received in a campaign period that either individually or in sum exceed $100 together with the name and address of the contributor(s).

A comprehensive listing of political contributions made to the reporting political parties and candidates during the 2003 election campaign is contained in "Appendix B" to this report.

ELECTION EXPENSES

Section 310 of the Elections Act, 1991 places limitations on the amount that political parties and candidates are permitted to spend on certain types of election expenses. In essence, a political party in a general election is limited to expenditure not to exceed $3.125 (adjusted for inflation) times the number of persons on the revised list of electors in each district the party has candidates. Election expenses of a candidate are limited to that same factor multiplied by the number of persons on the revised list of electors in the district in which he or she is a candidate, but in no case shall a party's or candidate's expenses be limited to an amount less than $12,000 (adjusted for inflation).

The initial dollar factors of $3.125 and $12,000 specified under Section 310 of the Act are adjusted annually by the Chief Electoral Officer for changes in the consumer price index. The factors applicable for the October 21, 2003 General Election were $3.51 and $13,483 respectively.

A listing of Individual district limits applicable to the October 2, 2003 general election is presented in "APPENDIX C" to this report.

Each of the four political parties and all but one of the candidates who filed returns relating to the election were found to be in compliance with expenditure limits.

Mr. Winston White, PC Torngat Mountains, filed a return indicating expenses in excess of the allowable limits. Because the Act specifies that it is an offence for a person to knowingly incur or authorize expenses contrary to the maximum established by legislation his file was referred to the Department of Justice for a further review. The RCMP conducted the review and determined that no charges were warranted under the Elections Act.

PUBLIC SUBSIDIZATION OF CANDIDATES EXPENSES

Section 312 of the Elections Act, 1991 entitles a Candidate who receives at least 15% of the popular vote cast in his or her electoral district to a reimbursement of election expenses from the Provincial Treasury equal to the lesser of 1/3 of the expense limit for the district or 1/3 of actual qualifying expenses. In the October 21, 2003 General Election, 95 of the 143 Candidates received at least 15% of the popular vote in their district and incurred qualifying election expenses. The Winston White campaign, although qualifying to receive a subsidy based on the 15% criteria, was not entitled to receive a candidate subsidy because the Chief Electoral Officer was not able to certify that the statements satisfied the requirements of Part III of the Act.

In addition to the Section 312 Candidate Subsidy, Subsection 302(9) provides for the subsidization of the cost of auditor services for all Candidates to a maximum of $500.

Total Section 312 candidate subsidy payments amounted to $666,965.37, with individual payments ranging from a low of $1,978.04 to a high of $11,509.00. Total Section 302 auditor subsidy payments amounted to $69,999.10

Section 313 of the Act requires that campaign surpluses created either from political contributions or payment of election expense subsidies be, in the case of a candidate whose political affiliation appears on the ballot, remitted to his or her party, and in all other cases remitted to the Chief Electoral Officer who shall hold the money in trust on behalf of the candidate to be used in the next general or by-election. If the candidate does not run in the next election, the surplus funds held in trust are remitted to the Provincial Consolidated Revenue Fund.

58 candidates in the October 21, 2003 General Election reported a campaign surplus remaining after payment of expenses. 57 of those candidates indicated a political affiliation on the ballot and were required to remit the surplus to their respective party. Total amounts to be transferred to the parties were as follows:

Progressive Conservative Party	$ 102,422.00
Liberal Party	$ 62,906.00
New Democratic Party	$ 13,743.00
Labrador Party	$ 588.00
	$ 179,659.00

OTHER COMPLIANCE ISSUES

As part of the powers and duties under the Elections Act, 1991, the Chief Electoral Officer is responsible for ensuring compliance by registered entities with the provisions of Part III of the Elections Act. Part III deals specifically with election finance issues and the disclosure and reporting requirements for financial information.

It should be noted that, with the exception of fraudulent activity, the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer does not have the legislative authority to intervene or disallow a particular expenditure relating to an election. The chief financial officer for a party or a candidate has sole responsibility for authorizing and incurring election expenses and other than a specific provision of the Act which prohibits directly influencing or purchasing a vote and other provisions limiting the amount of certain expenditures, he or she is entitled to spend campaign money in whatever manner is deemed acceptable for the purpose of securing the election of their candidate. The CFO is however required to report all expenditures to the Chief Electoral Officer and, in so doing, they are incorporated into his or her election finance report and become a matter of public record.

Part III of the Elections Act requires registered entities to maintain proper accounting records of their activities. They must adhere to the Part III rules governing solicitation, recording and reporting of political contributions and income tax receipts and they must report within specified time limits on election finance activity to the Chief Electoral Officer. Audited income and expense statements pertaining to elections filed under Section 304 are reviewed by the Chief Electoral Officer with a view to determining compliance with the above and other provisions of the Act.

One area of concern with respect to compliance with election finance legislation remains the ability of this office to impart knowledge of the Act and its financial regulations to a candidate and/or his or her chief financial officer (CFO) in an election.

Under normal circumstances, most candidates do not announce their candidacy or name their CFO until after a general election has been called. By that time both the candidate and his or her CFO are heavily involved in the day to day activities of the campaign and very little time is available to educate or train them with respect to the legislation.

The October 2003 election was unique from that perspective because although the date of the election was not specifically known in advance, it was known in advance that it would be held sometime during 2003. In anticipation, many candidates began preparation for the election process early in the year by naming their chief financial officers and registering their campaigns with my office.

This allowed the electoral office to offer training sessions during the spring of 2003 targeted towards at least a portion of the people who were to eventually act as financial officers for candidates. The sessions were reported to be helpful and informative by those who attended and it is fair to say my office encountered far fewer compliance issues with campaigns where the chief financial officer had received some training in advance of the election than with those who did not.

The most common errors that were encountered during my review of campaign period filings relate to political contributions and the recording and reporting of them as required under the Act.

Group contributions were a problem for many campaigns that were not aware of the legislative requirements respecting them.

Essentially, group contributions are prohibited by the Act unless the contribution is accompanied by a listing of members of the group which shows the individual sources and amounts contributed per group member. Legislation also prohibits the formation of a group specifically for the purpose of making a contribution and specifies that if a listing cannot be provided that the CFO is required to either return the contribution to the group or remit the amount received to the Chief Electoral Officer who in turn pays it over to the Provincial Consolidated Revenue Fund.

Another area where errors are frequently encountered concerns the establishment of campaign financing, in particular the use of personal loans or guarantees to pay campaign debts.

Under the Elections Act, a campaign loan must be made "directly" to the campaign in the name of the campaign and cannot be made in the name of an individual on behalf of a campaign. Such loans can only be made by a bank or other recognized lending institution or by a federal or provincial political party registered under the Canada Elections Act or recognized by the Chief Electoral Officer in the appropriate province.

In recognition of the difficulties experienced by candidates in obtaining loans in the name of a campaign without some form of personal guarantee acceptable to the banking institutions, the Chief Electoral Office allows candidates in an election to either personally guarantee their campaign loan or to use their own personal funds to establish their campaign.

If the campaign raises enough funds to do so, it is allowed to reimburse the candidate for these start-up expenses. However, if the campaign is unable to raise sufficient funds to repay the debt, the amount of the guarantee or personal expenditure is considered to be a contribution to the campaign and must be receipted and reported along with other campaign contributions.

Attempts to transfer money from local district associations to campaigns or to and from other campaigns also caused problems under election finance legislation.

The September 3rd, 1998 revisions to the Elections Act affected the activities of local political district associations during and prior to a campaign period. Such associations are considered unregistered entities under the Elections Act and they cannot contribute "directly" to a candidate's campaign. The accepted process is for the associations to channel any political contributions they receive through their associated political party, effectively placing the onus on the party, which is a registered entity under the Elections Act, to provide details on fund raising and contribution drives held by their district associations if those funds are intended to be used for a political purpose.

There were a few instances of funds raised by local district associations which were transferred directly to local candidates and two instances of campaigns transferring funds directly to another campaign. In each of these instances my office required the campaigns to take corrective measures to ensure the funds were treated in accordance with the provisions of the Elections Act. If contributions were involved, a listing of contributors was supplied to the candidate's party and have been incorporated into the comprehensive listing of political contributions contained in "Appendix B" to this report.

Other than the problem areas specifically cited in this report, my office encountered relatively few election finance compliance issues for the October 21, 2003 general election. All other compliance issues have been resolved to the satisfaction of the Chief Electoral Officer.

However, my office feels there is an ongoing need to discuss identified problem areas with the Advisory Committee on Election Finance established under the Act and to work towards establishing procedures and guidelines acceptable to all parties that will alleviate these concerns. On July 27, 2004 each of the Party leaders was written requesting that they name their representatives to the Committee as per subsection 333(1) of the Act. To date neither party has named their representatives.

TOTALS	383,783	1,357,065.00	452,355.00

Please Note:

District expenditure limits are calculated by multiplying the number of eligible voters in a district by an expense factor for 2003 ($3.51 per voter). An individual district limit cannot be set at less than $13,483.00.

A registered party's campaign expense limit is calculated by multiplying the expense factor for 2003 by the number of persons on the revised list of electors in each of the districts in which the party has a candidate.

A registered party contesting all 48 districts would have a campaign expenditure limit of 383,783 voters X $3.51 per voter = $1,347,078
